Move Is Launched to Put Issue Before President Roosevelt

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The angry dispute over Major General Johnson Hagood, who was removed from active command after criticizing New Deal work relief, led today to a call for an investigation and a move to place the issue before President Roosevelt.

"Terrorism" Charged
With one side charging governmental "terrorism" and the other warning army officers to keep out of "politics," congressional friends of Hagood urged that a military court of inquiry be sent up to delve into the whole incident.

Representative Blanton D. (Tex.), who has praised Hagood and suggested the impeachment of Secretary Dern and others, prepared to lead a delegation to the White House to protest the order sending Hagood home from his command at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, to "await orders."

EUROPE WANTS PEACE - BUT AT ITS OWN TERMS

This Situation Applies to Individual Nation, Observer Reveals

VIEWES PRESENTED BY NEWSPAPERMAN

Fears War Unless Belligerent Countries Come To Senses

War involving every European nation is inevitable within the next few years unless those nations come to their senses, realize that war does not settle anything, and develop the spirit of understanding between themselves, E. C. Ramsey, newspaper correspondent, told the Rotary club yesterday.

Such a war will be the most devastating the world has ever seen, and out of it will emerge a new civilization—an Asiatic, not a European civilization, Ramsey continued.

Want Peace on Own Terms

Nationalism is at a high pitch in all European countries, large and small, he said, and every nation is seething with war preparations and militaristic training and propaganda, even down to school children. Each nation is like a powder keg, with only a spark needed to start the war that will spread throughout the continent.

F. D. R. VETOES SEED MEASURE

Bill Would Have Authorized Loans Up to $500
Per Farmer

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—President Roosevelt today vetoed the $50,000,000 seed loan bill.

The measure was returned to the senate with the reminder by the President that in approving the $40,000,000 seed and feed loan bill in 1934, "I did so on the theory that it was proper to taper off the crop loan system, which had been initiated on a large scale as early as 1931."

The President added, however, that he would issue an executive order in the next few days to meet any needs for loans to produce new crops.

"I am convinced," Mr. Roosevelt said in his veto message, "that the immediate and actual needs to which I have referred can be met during the year 1936 by an expenditure of funds materially less than that proposed in the bill under discussion."

(The vetoed measure would have authorized seed and feed loans up to $500 per farmer on 1936 crops, the government taking a first lien on the output.)

ALL ALONE

The theory of isolation, which received its proper share of attention in orations honoring George Washington's birthday, has a strong appeal. In its simplest terms, it offers a way for the United States to keep out of trouble. There is undeniable attractiveness to such an idea.

Yet it seems likely that no policy of isolation ever can be stated in terms whose simplicity can begin to compare with the simplicity of the theory as expounded by a thorough isolationist like Sen. William E. Borah, for instance. Such simplicity, like that of many a cooking recipe, is deceiving.

"We should remain free from European controversies," declare the isolationists. "We should respect the rights of other nations and protect our own rights." These are samples of the doctrine of isolation. They convey the idea that if the United States could keep free from entangling foreign alliance, everything would be all right.

Unfortunately, the trouble is knowing how to keep free. The United States happens to have connections with every part of the world, connections which are the inevitable result of carrying on commerce and trade. Officially, the government has attempted to keep itself apart from foreign entanglements, yet it has been drawn into disputes outside its boundaries in spite of both its geographical and diplomatic isolation.

The natural desire "to get away from it all and to be alone" affects nations in the same way it affects individuals. The best way to respond to it is to analyze what it would entail. The United States will have real isolation when and if it wants real isolation—when and if it cuts itself off from the rest of the world. That never will happen. Not even isolationists really want it to happen.

OUCH!

The army order relieving Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood from command of the Eighth Corps area at San Antonio, Texas, has caused intense and widespread excitement. The origin of the uproar is obscure.

Last December, Gen. Hagood testified before the appropriations committee of the house of representatives. Under the impression that his remarks would be kept confidential, he made certain statements not particularly flattering to the Roosevelt administration.

For instance, he said: "It is harder for me to get five cents to buy a lead pencil than to get a thousand dollars to teach hobbies to CCC boys. Under WPA I can get $200 to build a gravel walk to the garden house, but I cannot get $10 to repair a 'busted' steam pipe."

Gen. Hagood divided government money into three classes: budget money, which is hard to get; WPA money, which is not so hard to get; WPA money, which is "very easy to get for trifling projects but almost impossible to get for anything worthwhile." He called the last class of money stage money, because "you can pass it around but you cannot get anything out of it in the end."

Gen. Hagood said such things because he believed some WPA money should be available for army housing. He already had a reputation for outspokenness; no one was surprised by his remarks. Many were surprised, however, by an order relieving him of his post. It is not known whether or not the order was caused by the testimony before the house appropriations committee, but it's not hard to imagine it might have been. Gen. Hagood must have hurt someone's feelings.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Owen Davis at 62 proves himself the most versatile, prolific and, many think, the most expert dramatist of the day. In his formative years he became identified with the ten-twenty-thirty with the frail heroine, hissing villain and virtue triumphant.

He was regarded as something of a playwrighting hack until he won the Pulitzer prize with a marbly threnody of his native Maine, "Icebound." This year he brought his son Donald into his field with a joint dramatization of "Ethan Frome," one of the outstanding hits.

Another son, Owen, Jr., has become an actor of some distinction. Nearly all of the present crop of dramatic critics remember when the elder Davis was regarded as something of a Corse Peyton of his calling. Nobody took his efforts very seriously. Just another blood and thunder!

He has changed all that without changing so very much himself. He has no truck with the intelligentsia. He's a big, virile, home-spun fellow without the slightest affectation. A survivor of the sophisticates that buried many of his kind. A plain playwright with plain messages that somehow never die.

Broadway, with its incessant curiosity, has a new topic. That was the appearance at a first night or so of one of its better known bachelors, George Jean Nathan, with a celebrated bachelor lady, Elsa Maxwell. Usually Nathan's partner for a premiere is Lillian Gish, now in Europe. So standardized are the opening night companionships that any variation, such as Nathan squiring Miss Maxwell, becomes an intermission sensation. They are old friends.

New York has many who pair off in purely platonic friendships and have become familiars at various gaities. Such as Alexander Woolcott and Neysa McMein, Fannie Hurst and Daniel Frohman, Maury Paul and Beth Leary, Miriam Hopkins and Ward Morehouse and Robert Garland and Mrs. Ruby Schinasi. Then there are many who are generally seen in public with their mothers. These include Clifton Webb, Richard Watts, Bernard Sobel, Milton Berle and Ginger Rogers.

Perhaps the most notable of the brother and sister combinations before their marriages, were Fred and Adele Astaire. He was her constant escort and both were happier when their dinner chairs edged. Together they were hilarious, apart rather staid and silent. That demeanor is often true among those who have gone through long stage partnerships.

Still another firm and enduring brother-and-sister alliance is that of the De Marcos, ballroom dancers. They lunch together here and there almost daily and in the same fashion attend matinees. On their occasional evening off they indulge the typical busman's holiday by making the rounds of the dance spots and dancing each dance together. No couple on the floor seems to enjoy themselves more. But maybe its one of those brother-and-sister poses stage marrieds often indulge for billing purposes.

There is a widely whispered story about another dancing couple whose skilful and dervishes have delighted multitudes in movies and on stage. Their mutual fond gazing as they dance is no small part of their charm. Yet from the second they make their final bow until they float into each other's arms again their hatred is bitter. Their smirks often conceal stinging epithetical asides. Business affairs are conducted through their manager. They have not spoken in a friendly way, the legend has it, for three years. The green-eyed monster!

The red checked John Bull looking cutter at the meat shop may have as good solution as the next fellow. I asked him today what he thought about the world outlook. "Well," he said, "it seems to me like everything is going to be all right until it gets better."

And there's my gay seamstress friend, the sew and sew, who writes me so chattily now and then from Richmond, Va. She was retiring with her hemstitching to work herself to sleep. And observed: "I might reverse Sam Peeps with 'And bed to sew.'"

For a month or so I have been window waving now and then at Jed Kiley at his hotel window across a sweep of roof. At least I thought it Kiley. Today I learned it wasn't. But a man who didn't know me, but knew my father. He thought me a bit daft. That is, the man did. Maybe father did, too. Today we discovered the dog Nimble wags his tail up and down. And Abel Green tells me he and his lady are off to London and Paris for two months in April. O, to be in England now that April, etc. M. and I appalled at the income tax estimate. Why toil?

A literary inclined student at the Kentucky Wesleyan college writes in that while concocting a bit of fiction this spontaneously popped right out of his head: "She put a check rein on the unbridled horse-play of the guests." Sounds like something by Sheila Kaye Smith.

THE STARS SAY

For Thursday, February 27.

The planetary configurations bearing rule on the affairs of this day favor all dealings with rings, combines, closed corporations or secret bodies, or by methods of strategy, diplomacy and tact. Undercover affairs thrive conspicuously. Promotion and favoritism in employment are shown and elders will be most friendly disposed. But in all be careful with papers and guard against misrepresentation and possible slander.

Those whose birthday it is may find their greatest success during the year through transactions with combines, rings, secret bodies or by measures of tact, diplomacy or conspiracy rather than by open measures. A child born on this day may be gifted in the domain of strategem, intrigue and diplomacy. It should have the support of its employers and elders. Let it be trained in staunch principles of integrity rather than expediency.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

Gallstone Cases
NOW COMES the announcement of a new surgical method of dealing with gallstones and gall bladder disease. The new operation has a tremendous name. It is called "cholecystelectrocoagulation". Don't try to pronounce the word—it might break your jaw!

In this procedure the gall bladder is gotten rid of by destroying it with an electric current of low voltage. It is hoped that by this system, if it is proven good, the stay in the hospital will be shortened and annoying complications prevented.

Gall stones is one of the most widely prevalent of all the surgical diseases. It is especially common in women of middle age. As a rule, women of fair complexion and overweight seem more prone to develop stones.

The actual cause of gallstones is not known. But many theories have been advanced. For example, some believe stones are formed in the gall bladder because of infection. Others attribute the formation to some disturbance in metabolism, the power of the body to use the foods consumed. Faulty diets, especially if deficient in certain vitamins, play an important role in the development of gallstones.

The sufferer complains of discomfort and digestive distress shortly after meals. As a rule, heartburn, excessive gas formation, sour taste, nausea and vomiting, are additional symptoms. Pain may persist, or appear at periodic intervals.

The pain may or may not be confined to the gall bladder area. Often it radiates from the abdomen to the chest and right shoulder. The pain may be mild, or so severe as to require the administration of an opiate.

Too many believe that a "pill," or other medicine of some sort, will dissolve gallstones. As a matter of fact, many of the so-called "gallstone medicines" merely serve to diminish the pain and discomfort. Permanent cure is only possible by surgical removal of the stones and sometimes drainage of the gall bladder.

Neglect Dangerous
It is dangerous to neglect gallstones if you are subject to repeated attacks of pain and other symptoms. Bear in mind that an attack of this sort may lead to rupture of the gall bladder. This is a serious condition and requires immediate operation.

Let me remind you that in some instances gall stones cause no pain. But the patient suffers from marked digestive disturbances and distress which are often thought to be due to other causes. X-ray examination is advised in all cases where stones are suspected. Do not confuse inflammations of the gall bladder with gallstones. "Cholecystitis" is the medical name for inflammation of the gall bladder. This condition doesn't demand operation in every case, in many instances complete relief is obtained by diet. Your doctor will advise you.

Extra special news you'll find it, when you pile up the miles, roll the weeks into months, and see how meager are its demands for gas and oil—how stubbornly it resists the siren call of the repair shop.

It's newsworthy for style, for power, for comfort, for safety. It's a headliner for thrift, for prolonged resistance to wear, tear and abuse. It will write family history in the new sort of satisfaction it gives you and yours.

But highlight of the news is that you can buy the Buick Special for a mere two or three dollars a week more than the lowest-priced cars. The new GMAC 6% Time Payment Plan brings down the cost of buying "on time," makes payments easy, removes the last cause for waiting to "step-up" to a Buick.

We'd like to show you the phenomenal Special, let you drive it, figure out the arithmetic on it. It's worth your while just to find out how little it costs to get a car that's big in more ways than its inches! When may we see you?

*$765 to $1945 are the list prices of the new Buicks at Flint, Michigan, subject to change without notice. Standard and special accessories groups on all models at extra cost. All Buick prices include safety glass throughout as standard equipment.

Travel Talk Is Given At Club Session

Mrs. R. E. Smucker gave a delightful account of her trip to Bermuda last summer at the meeting of the Salem Travelers club in the public library assembly room Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. and Mrs. Smucker started at Montreal, Can., sailing down the St. Lawrence river on a Canadian boat which stopped only at English ports. The trip from Montreal afforded the travelers four extra days on the water and avoided the necessity of changing boats in Bermuda.

Mrs. Smucker described the approach to the islands, the main cities, the beauty of the islands and compared the indolent people of that region with the energetic, business-like and alert people of the north. Mrs. Smucker related that the islands have a delightful climate. It never gets below 50 and rarely above 90 in either summer or winter season. She described the beautiful plants, trees and flowers that abound there.

She gave a brief history of the settlement of the Bermudas. Hamilton is the capital of Bermuda and although it is a city of about 2,400 people there are no automobiles or trucks. People ride bicycles, carriages and donkeys or the small railway which crosses the island since there are no cars of any kind on the island. Around all the public buildings in Hamilton are lovely gardens. Bermuda has some very fine shops and hotels, maintained by the enormous tourist trade.

The governor of Bermuda and his wife were on board the Smuckers' boat on the return trip as were a number of other interesting persons from the island.

After the stop at Bermuda they went on to the Bahama islands, whose largest port is Nassau, center of the world's sponge market. From there the party went on to Jamaica and then back to Montreal.

Mrs. Smucker in closing said that the trip, in the company of a number of Canadians, had taught her a better understanding, a deeper feeling and greater appreciation of our northern neighbors.

Following her talk, Mrs. G. E. Byers showed moving pictures of some of the places on the trip taken by the Canadian National Railway Co.

Mrs. George H. Bowman, Jr., reviewed the book, "The Pageant" by G. B. Lancaster, a story of Tasmania and its early settlers.

After the meeting the social committee served tea. The table was beautifully appointed with a mirrored center decoration of pansies and ivy. Green candles in tall silver holders lighted the table.

A report of American Legion auxiliary work activities was made by Mrs. Ralph Sturgeon, president of the auxiliary, during last night's meeting at the post home.

Members earned more than $60 during the week to contribute to the rehabilitation and welfare funds of the auxiliary. After the marked success of this first drive, the group voted to establish American Legion Auxiliary week as an annual project to replenish the welfare and rehabilitation treasuries.

Plans were completed to serve the dinner for Quota club members at their meeting on March 3 at the Legion home.

A program on national defense and Americanism, to which this month is dedicated by the Legion, was presented after the business session. Figures were given comparing the United States' regular army and navy with those of other leading nations of the world. "The Perfect Tribute" was read as a feature of the program. Stephen Day May Obtain Delegates To G. O. P. Session

DAYTON, Feb. 26.—Stephen A. Day, Chicago attorney whose father was a U. S. supreme court justice, studied today his chances of obtaining delegates to the Republican national convention in the May primary in Ohio.

Day said he was "considering entering a complete list of delegates, both at large and by districts." He promised a more complete announcement of his plans in a few days.

The 53-year-old Chicagoan said he would campaign against the new deal because "I pledged my father that if the supreme court ever were in danger, I would fight with all my strength to preserve its integrity."

Day's father, William R. Day, served as secretary of state in the McKinley administration. He served on the supreme court bench from 1903 to 1923 after appointment by President Roosevelt.

"We lived in the same block with McKinley in Canton," Day said. The attorney has never held a political office before.

Jockey Arrested In Woman's Death

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—Police delved today into probable motives for the Mardi Gras slaying of 29-year-old Mrs. Estelle Hughes, while New Orleans revelers turned from the pageantry of the annual carnival to religious observance of ash Wednesday.

The gaiety which has reigned throughout the city for a week ended in a blaze of flambeaux last night as Rex, Lord of Misrule, held court at the final ball of the season. The body of Mrs. Hughes, a Panama City, Fla., woman, was found yesterday with a bullet wound in the head.

After an all-day investigation police placed a charge of murder against Hack O'Day, 26, a jockey. O'Day mumbled to Assistant District Attorney Sidney Mitchell that he did not "remember a thing."

"I might have shot the woman for all I know, but I guess I was too drunk to know anything," he told officials.

Suggestions-- for the Spring Bride

Two Lovely Items That Would Fit Into Any Trousseau

By MARIE MAROT

THE first robin and the first wedding announcements are pleasant harbingers of impending spring. Already the various stores report good business in their trousseau departments as girls who have decided on a spring wedding engage in the delightful task of assembling a wedding and honeymoon wardrobe. Linerie is especially lovely this season and most girls are including at least one of the latest "evening gown" nightrobes and also a dramatic negligee in their trousseaux. Here are two lovely items just now on the counters. The first is a dressy negligee that is also washable. The model has practical sleeves, a dressy collar and is offered in lovely hues. The nightie with evening gown contours has lovely lace accents, a fitted bodice and skirt with a train.

LEGION HOLDS 3-POINT PLAN

Recommends Legislative Program to Combat Communism

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 26.—The American Legion, completing a year's review of communism in the United States, recommended today a three-point legislative program as a means of combating spread of the doctrine in this country.

The Legion, in a 200-page booklet on the results of its survey, urged congress to pass laws which will close all immigration for 10 years; make mandatory for the United States immigration service to deport all alien-born persons who are members of any group "that proposes to change or overthrow this government by force or violence," and make it mandatory for the immigration service to immediately deport all aliens who enter the country illegally and provide for the finger-printing of all persons.

Communist activities among youth and in agricultural regions came in for particular attention in the report.

"The communists have directed that a major portion of the activity in the U. S. A. be among the youth," the report said.

Cleveland Passes Levy for Expenses

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26.—A seven-mill levy for city of Cleveland operating expenses was approved at a special election yesterday by a vote of 89,743 to 50,804.

At the same time a count complete except for three city precincts showed that the $1,050,000 county relief bond issue won by a large majority. The vote was 101,376 for the issue and 51,887 against.

Followers of Mayor Harold H. Burton looked on approval of the levy as a personal victory for him. Finance Director G. A. Gesell estimated the levy would bring this year's income for the city up to $17,716,000. The city tax rate will be raised from $2.99 per $100 valuation to $3.20.

The $1,050,000 Carey family relief bonds were approved by decisive majorities in the major suburbs and beaten in the smaller suburbs.

Rules On Fees

COLUMBUS, Feb. 26.—A ruling by Montgomery county Common Pleas Judge Mason Douglas that deputy registrars of motor vehicles legally could collect only 15 cent fees for issuing tags will go unchallenged for the present, Frank West, state registrar, said today.

West conferred with Assistant Attorney General J. K. Evans and the Montgomery county prosecutor yesterday and said some action might be taken after further study of the decision.

He did not say whether the Montgomery county order might apply to other counties.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeanette Young Norton

THE DINNERS served today are more nutritionally complete and more gastronomically pleasing than the abundance of rich foods that used to be considered necessary.

Today we serve a citrus fruit appetizer to balance the satrhy food and the meat, which foods are topped off by green vegetables, a crisp salad and dessert. These foods may be served singly or as a combination dish and a salad dessert. Rice served with meat or poultry is a most satisfying foundation for a dinner menu, one that we always recommend.

A menu that begins with a grapefruit cocktail, then has a Swiss steak with rice, shredded lettuce and carrot salad, with fruit compote for dessert, would be a perfect meal both from the gastro-nomic and the nutritional viewpoint. When the meal is light then the dessert should be heavier to maintain a complete balance.

Swiss Steak Recipe

So now for a good dinner recipe, using as a main course Swiss steak. This calls for one cup each of rice and flour, two teaspoons salt, one pint tomato juice, one pint cooked green string beans, two pounds of round steak cut two inches thick, a dash of pepper, six onions, quarter cup lard and one clove of garlic. Rub the sassing well into the meat. Dredge with flour and pound thoroughly. Turn the meat, add flour and pound until all the flour is used. Brown the sliced onions in the lard. Remove from pan. Brown the meat in the same pan. Place meat in a roasting pan. Cover with the onions. Add the seasonings, add water to cover the meat. Bake covered in a moderate oven two hours. Cover the meat with the well-washed rice. Pour over the tomatoes. Cover and continue baking for one hour. Serve on a large platter garnished with the string beans. It makes six servings.

BRING IMPUDENCE into the kitchen in the guise of plenty of tangy sauce. The right sauce will make the simplest dish a feast and it will make a banquet out of bits of lyric leftovers.

We'll reverse things and begin with a sauce guaranteed to glorify any pudding. Boil together one cup dark corn syrup, half cup sugar and one tablespoon cream or evaporated milk until a little syrup forms a soft ball in cold water or 250 degrees F. Remove from fire, and add one tablespoon butter, salt and half teaspoon vanilla. Blend and add boiling water, two tablespoons of it. Then you'll have a grand butter-scotch sauce.

Ice Cream Sauce

For giving a new tang and zest to ice cream we suggest a chocolate mint sauce. Take two squares of chocolate and cut into five or six pieces (or use cocoa). Stir over direct heat and with one cup cold water until smooth and thick. Add one and a half cups sugar, half cup light corn syrup and salt, and stir until dissolved. Boil three minutes. Add two cups tomatoes and two tablespoons sliced mushrooms, one teaspoon salt and paprika. Cook for 15 minutes and serve around omelet or on hot boiled rice or spaghetti for main luncheon dish.

Fruity and good is a date sauce. Rub quarter cup butter with the back of a spoon until very creamy. Stir in three-quarters of a cup of light-brown sugar very gradually and add three tablespoons cream. Fold in one tablespoon minced, preserved ginger and quarter cup finely chopped dates and pile lightly in a serving dish. Chill thoroughly.

Spanish sauce is a tangy foreign flavor that should soon be at home at your table. Cook one tablespoon chopped onion and quarter cup chopped green pepper in one tablespoon cooking oil until light brown. Add two cups tomatoes and two tablespoons sliced mushrooms, one teaspoon salt and paprika. Cook for 15 minutes and serve around omelet or on hot boiled rice or spaghetti for main luncheon dish.

Republicans Charge New Deal "Reign of Terror"

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The swift removal of Major General Johnson Hagood after he criticized new deal work relief threatens today to become a major political issue.

Republicans accused the new deal of a "reign of terror" while Democrats split on the order relieving the army's third ranking general officer from command at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., and sending him to his Charleston, S. C., home to "await orders."

High new dealers were silent on the order, issued "by direction of the president." Some in the capital believed Hagood, who told a house sub-committee that WPA funds were "stage money" and that there would be "nothing permanent" to show for much of it, might be kept on the inactive list until he reaches retirement age of 64 next year.

Declaring that he would fight the war department "to a finish" for what he called an "infamous, dirty, damnable and inexcusable outrage," Representative Blanton (D-Tex.) demanded the impeachment of Secretary Dern, General Malin Craig, chief of staff, and Assistant War Secretary Harry H. Woodring.

While army officers said Hagood's removal was "routine," Representative Lebach (R-N. J.) charged the general was a victim of "the reign of terror" because he "said something which might injure candidate Roosevelt."

But Representative Bankhead (D-Ala.), Democratic leader, said "a man in a non-political branch of the government ought to be very careful in statements he makes."

The American Liberty league declared there was "nothing surprising in the incident." It said in a statement that "suppression of free speech and a free press, * * * are the universal weapons of dictatorship."

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Scales

It takes only one bottle of Dr. J. S. Leonard's prescription—HEM-ROID—to relieve itching, bleeding or protruding piles. This internal medicine acts quickly even in old stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succors because it helps to heal and restore the affected parts and relieves blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this, that's why salves and cutting often fail. All druggists say one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must relieve you of your Pile misery or money back.

SENATE BATTLES 'WORST LOG JAM'

Upper Branch Members Strive to Straighten Out Legislation

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Feb. 26—Members of Ohio's senate strove today to straighten out what Majority Floor Leader Paul P. Yoder described as "the worst log jam I have ever experienced."
They waded into a pile of pending legislation, an unemployment insurance bill and several other social security measures, plus the milk control bill described by Gov. Martin L. Davey as the "most important business before them," and the Ward income tax measure.

Yoder, usually a spark-plug in the Senate machinery, restricted himself to giving advice to his colleagues and acting as a clearing house for sentiment on legislation. He is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.
The house, believing its work completed, was all set for sine die adjournment Friday. The house rules committee reported out a resolution for adjournment then but action was postponed until today.
The lower body has passed all the legislation now pending in the senate and creating the "log jam."
Sine die adjournment would kill the pending legislation and prevent crystallization of sentiment for overriding Governor Davey's $3,000,000 cuts in the revised budget bill.

Deficit Is Seen
Chairman Julian W. Schweller (D. Putman) of the house finance committee predicted that "no doubt there would be a deficit at the end of the year because of the veto." He opposed, however, any attempt to override them.

The committee reported out a $533,374 bill to pay operating deficiencies for last year of various departments and institutions as a result of Governor Davey's slash of $8,875,000 in the original biennial budget bill.
Schweller said the state finance department had drawn up the bill with Davey's approval. It would give the welfare department $307,247; Ohio State university $104,206; and the industrial commission $21,476.

Fights Liquor Agencies
The fight of blind Rep. George J. Harter (D. Summit) against liquor agencies continued with an assertion that he had heard rumors that some Cleveland liquor agencies had paid $5,000 for their permits.
Speaking in opposition to the McCluskey bill to legalize liquor agencies, Harter told the house judiciary committee "there are lots of rumors that some of the Cleveland liquor agencies paid as high as $5,000 for their permits."

Quakers Play Last Game Of Regular Season Friday Night

Entertain Struthers In Final Big Six Tilt At High School Court

Both Teams Will Enter the Youngstown Sectional Tournament Next Week; Struthers Has Won Eight Games and Lost Ten To Date

Bringing to a close their regular season and also ending the basketball activity of the Northeastern Ohio Big Six league for the current campaign, Coach Herb Brown's Salem High school Quakers entertain Struthers High's cagers at the high school gymnasium Friday night.

The contest will also mark the close of the regular season for Struthers. Both teams will enter the Youngstown sectional Class A tournament next week with Struthers playing Youngstown East and Salem meeting Youngstown South in first round games.

Struthers, under the tutelage of Art Francis, who succeeded Denny Schill, has failed to break even in its 18 games to date, having lost 10 and won eight.

Two of its defeats came last week at the hands of Boardman and Alliance. Both were upsets. Alliance broke an 11-game losing streak by winning over Coach Francis's lads.

Struthers lost the service of its tallest player, Harkins, at mid-year and has since that time had considerable trouble in finding another eager capable of filling the center berth.

Outside of Harkins, Kimmel, a forward, was the only veteran to greet Coach Francis at the start of the season.

After losing Harkins, Coach Francis moved Anders into the regular tip-off position. The other men:

Faculty Manager Fred Cope said today that the Salem-Struthers basketball contest at Salem high school gymnasium Friday night will be designated as "Dr. Naismith's Game."

Schools throughout the nation have held games in honor of Dr. Naismith, founder of basketball and have turned that portion of the proceeds over to a fund established to send the game's inventor to the Olympics.

During the last four seasons, Salem holds a three to one edge in its series with Struthers. Last season, Salem won a 34 to 27 verdict while the previous season Struthers was on top, 33 to 29. Salem gained a 26 to 18 victory in the 1932-33 campaign and won 27 to 13 in the 1931-32 season.

Make Last Stand

The Quakers, who added their seventh and eighth victories to their season's records by winning over Alliance and Niles last week, will be making their last stand on their home hardwoods Friday night.

Although Struthers' supposed to be the stronger scoring machine, the Quakers have to be considered the favorites on the basis of their better record and the fact that they are on their home court.

One of the Quakers, Eddie Pukalski, will be playing on the Salem High hardwoods for the last time against Struthers. Pukalski, who graduates in June, is the only senior member of the present team.

Some indication as to how the Quakers will stack up against Youngstown South in their first tournament game may be gained from their contest Friday night. Struthers was defeated by South, 27 to 19, earlier in the season.

JACKETS LOSE TO MUSKINGUM

Oberlin Wins Hotly Contested Battle at Granville

Muskingum held a 30 to 23 victory over Baldwin-Wallace today after a battle which was distinguished by a duel between the two opposing centers.

Dean Meely, the Muskingum center, held Ward Powell, B-W. tipoff man, to three points and scored nine himself. The invading Yellow Jackets were never ahead and the Muskies held an 18 to 10 edge at the half.

A hotly contested battle at Granville ended after an overtime period with Oberlin victorious, 37 to 36. Foster of Oberlin tied the score at 34-all in the last minute of the regulation time. In the overtime period he sank another basket but Cameron, who scored a total of 17 points, cared one that gave Oberlin the game.

Ohio Northern closed its season on its own floor with a 56 to 50 victory over Findlay in a bitterly-fought game in which 45 fouls were called. It was Northern's third victory in 13 starts. Trostman of Findlay and Harmon of Northern sank 12 points apiece, while Calbrese of Findlay and Greenstein of Northern made 11. Northern was ahead, 25 to 21 at the half.

Akron university trounced John Carroll 48 to 33 at Akron. Akron led throughout the fray with nine players breaking into the scoring column and Bill Sturgeon making 14 points. The game was held scoreless from the field until the last seven minutes of the first half.

Defiance subdued Battle Creek, Mich., College 47 to 37 at Defiance. The Michigan outfit jumped off to a 12-1 lead at the start but Defiance soon pulled even and led 24 to 22 at the intermission. Weary of Defiance made 19 points.

At Huntington, Ind., Huntington defeated Giffin of Van Wert, 61 to 24.

Pittsburgh Pirate Personalities

In writing the history of the great national game, sports historians will be unanimous on one item and that item is that Pie Traynor, present manager and third baseman of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was the greatest third baseman of his day and one of the most expert guardians of the hot corner of all time.

At Baseball 16 Years

Harold Joseph Traynor has been wearing the spangles of organized baseball 16 years, two of them in the minor leagues.

After scouts had cast dubious eyes at the gangling youngster of the Boston and Somerville lots, and after he had been chased out of both Boston league parks as apparently hopeless because of his awkwardness, he finally got a chance in the paid pastime with the Portsmouth club of the old Virginia league. Immediately he sprang into prominence by clinching the shortstop job and averaging better than one hit a game in 196 contests his first season out.

The big league scout who had given him up on his home town bled again became interested and started to dog the trail of the Portsmouth club. The Pittsburgh club, after two of its scouts had put their O. K. on the youngster, put him on the roster and he became one of the club's stars.

Pie's services passed to the Pirates in August, 1920, although he remained with Portsmouth several weeks after his purchase. The price paid was the all-time record price for a Virginia league player.

Gets Chance

Pie was not long getting a chance to show his wares after reporting to Pittsburgh. Bill McKechnie, present pilot of the Boston Nationals, but then third baseman of the Pirates, went lame suddenly in mid-September and Pie, going to third late in the game, uncorked a ninth inning rally with a double that won the game.

As a sandlot kid and as a minor league Pie was a shortstop and, finishing the 1920 season, his first experience with the Buccaneers, he played 17 games at that position.

But the following spring, George Gibson, then in his first term as Pirate skipper, shifted him to third base. But he had no chance to oust Clyde Barnhart the regular third baseman. At the close of the training season it was very apparent that the youngster, while rich in native ability, needed another year in the minors for the experience necessary for major league ball. Gibson gave Pie the choice of several Class A clubs with which he could serve his apprenticeship.

He selected Birmingham (Ala.) in the Southern association, then managed by Carlton Molesworth, present Pirate scout, having heard a lot about Molesworth's ability to tutor young players besides being a fine fellow to play for.

Sensation In South

Traynor went to shortstop for Birmingham and quickly became the sensation of the southern circuit; nothing like him had been seen in Dixie for a long time. Every club in major league ball, although they knew Pie to be a Buccaneer property, cast envious eyes at the lad, and what a price the late Barney Dreyfuss could have procured had he been disposed to sell. Pie, however, was recalled the fall of 1921 in time to play seven games with the Buccos divided between short and third, ere the curtain dropped. The following season he went to third base and this spring is beginning his 15th full season as a Pirate at that position and had played in 1930 major league championship contests at the close of the 1935 season for an all-around batting average of .319. He has been in two world series, 1925 and 1927.

Traynor was born Nov. 11, 1899, at Framingham, Mass. At the age of five years, his parents located in Somerville, a suburb of Boston, and just a few years ago removed to Arlington another village adjacent to the Hub. The past two years he has spent at his wife's home in Brockville, Ind., and in California.

His attachment for the game and his strict application to the task have played a great part in Traynor's success. He has loved the game from the start, and constant practice coupled with a pronounced native ability, has made him a star of unusual brilliance.

Wrestling Results

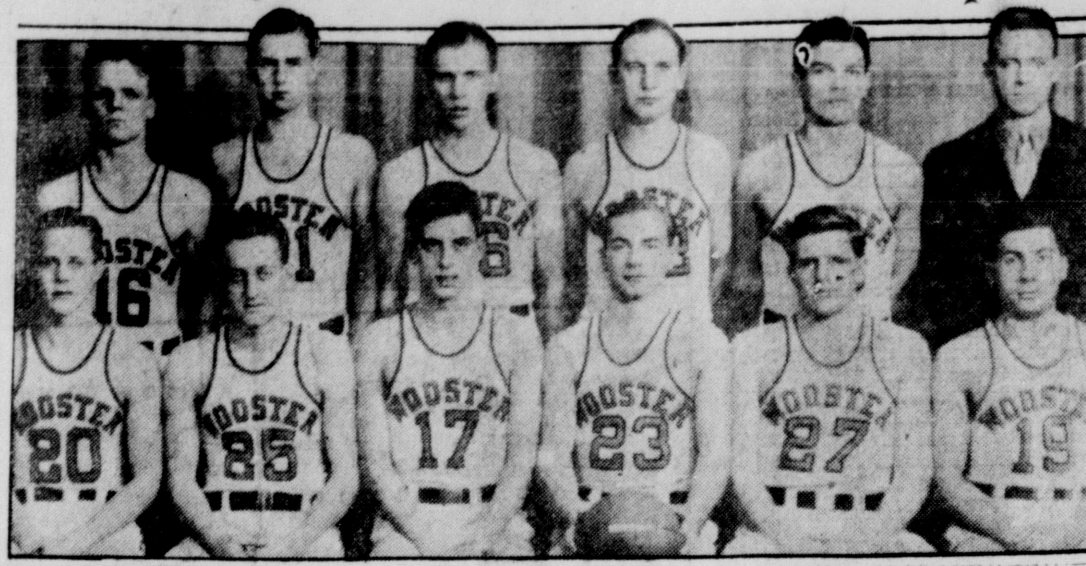

Newark, N. J.—Ed Don George, 219, Buffalo, and Joe Savoldi, 205, Three Oaks, Mich., drew 90 minutes (one fall each).

New Haven, Conn.—George Koverly, 214, California, defeated John Katon, 218, Montreal, two out of three falls.

Albany, N. Y.—Ernie Dusek, 228, Omaha, defeated Stan Cordovano, 204, Buffalo, two out of three falls.

Bridgeton, N. J.—Jose Manuel, 184, Portugal, defeated Frank Scholl, 182, California, two straight falls.

They Invade Mount Union Tomorrow

Pictured here are Coach Mose Hole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Hole of the Ellsworth road, and his Wooster college basketball team. With three games left to play this season, the Scots have won eight and lost six. This gives Coach Hole a record of 108 victories as against 54 defeats since he has been handling the reigns of Wooster cage teams.

Wooster plays Mt. Union at Alliance Thursday and Akron at Wooster Saturday. The Scots have scores to settle with both teams, the 36-31 loss to Mount in January and the 63-37 defeat at Akron two weeks ago. Wooster closes its season at home March 7 with Ashland.

METHODISTS WIN IN CLASS B TILT

First Round Champions Gain Second Win of Second Round

The Methodist quintet, first round champion of the Class B city league, scored its second victory of the second round at the Memorial building last night by gaining a close 22 to 19 verdict over the Trojans.

The Methodists were held to three points in the first period and went scoreless in the second frame but their strong rally in the last half brought them the victory. The Trojans led 11 to 3 at the intermission.

The Saxons held the lead for two periods in their contest with the Columbians but lost out, 20 to 16. The Columbians first took the lead at the end of the third period.

Piling up a big lead in the first half the Christians were forced to stave off a last period rally by Winona before they could chalk up an 18 to 12 victory. The Christians were out in front 12 to 5 at half time.

C. Weigand of the Methodists, Rogers of the Columbians and Windle of the Christians were outstanding during last night's Class B games.

MISS BERG TIES COURSE RECORD

Patty Makes Short Work Of Her First Round Opponent

ORLANDO BEACH, Fla., Feb. 26.—Stopping Patty Berg, the mighty Minneapolis miss, in the South Atlantic golf tournament appeared today to be a matter calling for a new women's record for the Ormond Beach course.

The luckless first round opponent for the determined Patty was Alice Rutherford, of Alken, S. C., whose qualifying 20 was 17 strokes higher than the redhead's medalist card.

A missed short putt on the 18th cost Miss Berg a new course standard. As it was, she tied the 73 posted by Virginia Van Wie in 1930.

Marion Miley, Lexington, Ky., stylist who won here last year, had a second low qualifying score, a two-under-par 75. Her first round opposition was to be furnished by Mary Bleisch of Evanston, Ill., who entered the championship flight on an 89.

Mrs. Orl S. Hill, the Kansas City veteran, drew Mrs. Arthur A. Jones of New York in the first round.

BELIEVE LEIBER WILL BE SIGNED BY OPENING DAY

Rarely Does Player Feel He Can Quit Rather Than Agree

BY ALAN GOULD.

Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Although the ranks of Major league holdouts have given little ground of late there is no reason to view with much alarm or believe that, for example, Hank Leiber will be busy opening day doing other than playing center field for the New York Giants.

Not Unprecedented

The stubborn character of the Leiber case, so far baffling the best minds of the Giants' headquarters staff, is not extraordinary or unprecedented. Hank himself has punctuated a brief big league career with previous salary arguments. He threatened a holdout siege two years ago, before he clinched a regular job. It may require more persuasion and further compromise before the man from Arizona capitulates but it's a 1 to 10 shot he will soon be on his way to Pensacola.

Rarely in baseball history have salary differences been so serious that an athlete felt he could quit or a club owner was willing to let him do so, rather than come to a compromise agreement.

Mike Donlin, a colorful outfield figure on the Giants of John McGraw's early days, made his holdout stick one season. Chick Hefey, when he was with the St. Louis Cardinals, didn't come to terms until well after one season had started. Chick's retirement later, after being traded to the Cincinnati Reds, was partially due to salary differences, but he is talking now of a come-back.

The last real holdout was another former outfield star of the Reds, Ed Roush. After being traded to Cincinnati by the Giants, Roush balked at all offers and stuck to his Indiana farm. He was about at the end of his big league career, anyway, so that there is no real parallel between his case and that of a rising youngster like Leiber.

The viewpoint of the athlete naturally is that he has "got to get it while the getting is good." He knows that the average club owner will not offer him social security when he begins to slip.

Inducements of an extra-curricular nature have helped the St. Louis Cardinals settle salary differences with several stars, including Dizzy Dean. Apparently it is not going to be so easy this year but the Cardinal front-office, last year, persuaded Dean to sign a $17,500 playing contract as part of an agreement by which Dizzy was helped to derive substantial revenue, on the side from endorsements. Similarly Cardinal executives aided Pepper Martin to "cash in" on his fame following the exploits of the "wild horse" in the 1931 World series.

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 26.—Dizzy Dean, who thinks he's worth exactly $21,500 more than the St. Louis Cardinals offer him, said today he was about ready "to compromise a bit."

Dizzy, official spokesman for himself and brother Paul, the Cardinals' only holdouts, disclosed the club had offered him an $18,500 contract. He thinks he's worth $40,000.

"I haven't heard a word from the Cardinal officials since I sent my first contract back unsigned," he said, "and I'll assure you that they won't hear from me first."

EUROPE WANTS ITS OWN PEACE

bombs than all the bombs dropped in any one month of the World War, and today Italy is working on a similar bomber, Ramsey said.

Saw Children Training

"Newspaper reports that Mussolini has ordered children down to the age of eight into military training may shock you people," he added, "but I actually saw these children—not only eight, but also six years of age—on the military training fields, dressed in regulation soldier attire and learning to shoot rifles. At first they were called to drill every Sunday, but now they are drilling several days a week."

Ramsey declared that the bitter feeling Italy has had for France still exists, the present agreement between the two nations being only a temporary truce. He said Italy eventually will emerge victor in its Ethiopian war, but that England and France will see to it that the Italians are not too victorious.

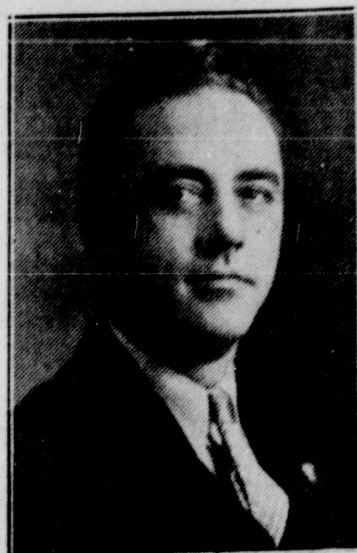

England does not want to see Mussolini's government fall at the present, Ramsey said, but he added that the il duce is definitely on his way out, as is King Carol of Roumania.

Russian Situation

He touched only briefly on the Russian situation, through lack of time, but he pointed to the great military preparations of that country. He said he saw no danger to this country from Communism, and he closed by declaring that you need only to visit these hot spots of Europe to appreciate your American citizenship.

Tuesday morning Ramsey spoke before the High school assembly, dwelling more on the Russian situation, and later was besieged with questions from the students.

Legion Speaker

Homer Chaillaux, national director of the American Legion, will speak on "Communism" at a meeting at the city auditorium at Canton at 8 p. m. Wednesday, March 4.

Members of Salem and other Columbiana county Legion posts are planning to attend.

Chaillaux, whose home is in Inglewood, Calif., was appointed to his Legion position last November by Frank N. Belgrano, national commander of the Legion. Chaillaux is considered one of the best informed men in the United States on the activities of the communists.

Auto Crash Fatal

ASHLAND, Feb. 26.—Wayne A. Thompson, 38, Cleveland, died in a hospital last night from injuries received when an auto in which he was riding crashed into a tree near Big Prairie, after striking Jules McCaskey, 10. The boy was taken to Mansfield General hospital. John Quirk of Cleveland, another occupant of the car injured, was reported recovering in Ashland hospital.

fled to escape the tide of Wheeling creek.

Homes Endangered

Belmont County Sheriff Howard A. Duff reported that 200 or more homes were endangered. The state aeronautics department refused Duff's request, however, to bomb Wheeling creek gorges, asserting danger to closely-built villages nearby would be too great.

With Pennsylvania rivers and creeks rising hourly, the Ohio river swept westward at increased tempo. A typical spring rain, general over the southern counties, caused fresh run-offs. At Cincinnati, the stream was dropping slightly, but a slight rise was forecast by midnight. Stage was about 24 feet, less than half the flood figure.

Other points in the state battled similar conditions.

Motorists on Route 76 between Coshocton and Wooster, and on Route 35, between Coshocton and Mount Vernon, were delayed as water spread over the roads. Families in that area evacuated homes. Travel on Route 257 near Bellport, Delaware county was detoured as the Scioto swept out of bounds.

Both the Tuscarawas and the Walhonding rivers were rising, and ice at the confluence of the two, at Coshocton, withstood efforts to dynamite it.

A forecast of colder weather generally carried with it increased misery for those affected.

DEATHS

JONATHAN LOWER

COLUMBIANA, Feb. 26.—Jonathan Lower, 78, died Tuesday at his home on North Elm st., after a five-and-a-half years illness of complication.

He was a retired farmer and breeder and dealer in fine stock. He spent his entire life in and near here, retiring 18 years ago when he moved to Columbiana from his farm. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lower and was born in Unity township near New Springfield on June 15, 1857. He was married to Nancy Flickinger on May 13, 1879, at Columbiana. He was a member of Grace Reformed church here.

He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Earle Zimmerman of Akron; one son, Ralph of Columbiana; and three grandchildren. One daughter died some years ago.

Plane Brings Under-Secretary Grady to Good-year Plant

(By Associated Press)

AKRON, Feb. 26.—Edward F. McGrady, under secretary of labor, reached Akron by plane today to promote a settlement of the Good-year Tire & Rubber Co. strike, which has made 14,000 employees idle.

Picket lines about the Goodyear plants dwindled to the limits of 10 at each gate, as specified by a court injunction against mass picketing.

Conditions Continue

Sheriff James T. Flower said he would ask Summit county common pleas judges for instructions concerning means of enforcing their injunction.

P. W. Litchfield, Goodyear president, asserted in a midnight broadcast from inside the plants, where he has been living with 1,000 employees, that despite an injunction limiting pickets to 10 at each of 44 gates, "nothing has happened other than a continuation of the violence by which our factory doors have been closed and our shipments of goods into and out of the factory blocked."

He said "the suggestion that the management confer with representatives who take this means of enforcing their demands would be a surrender of rights to citizenship and a recognition of mob violence."

Litchfield defended the company's wage scales and revisions of hours. The laying off of tire builders in plant No. 2 led to the picketing. Strikers demanded three days' advance notice for men about to be laid off.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 26.—Dr. D. A. Scheibenzuber, 70, formerly of Dayton, died suddenly yesterday, a moment after he had parked his automobile in the garage of his home.

When he failed to return in the evening garage attendants became suspicious and notified state patrolmen who discovered that the car had been stolen.

ted the war department would launch an immediate inquiry as a result of criticism hurled by Senator Robinson (D. Ark.) against Major General C. Bolles, commander of the 7th corps area at Omaha.

Charges Politics

Tangling with Senator Hastings (R. Del.) yesterday in a hot dispute over Hagood, Majority Leader Robinson had said Bolles was "actively engaged in politics, with a candidate for the presidency."

Quick denial came from Bolles. He said he was "not in politics" and had voted only once in his life.

Representative McSwain (D. S. C.) chairman of the military affairs committee, advanced the court of inquiry idea, which at once was taken up by some other members of the committee regardless of their attitude toward the general's treatment.

Nationalist Government Ordered After Military Uprising

Makoto Saito, said a state of alarm was proclaimed in invoking a partial form of martial law.

"The situation will soon be under control," the communique said. "The exchanges in Tokyo were closed during the day and operations were suspended, but banks throughout the country remained open."

Japanese sources at Shanghai reported the loyal imperial bodyguard received marching orders, some after the uprising broke and that the government was already re-assuming its control.

The rebellion was attributed by Japanese officials in China to the order to the first army division to go to continental Asiatic Manchoukoo, some officers being unwilling to proceed.

Opposed Okada Cabinet

Aggressive elements of the Japanese army also had been antagonistic for some time toward the Okada cabinet, objecting to a curb on military appropriations and straining at the leash against a tendency to restrict the military freedom of action in Asia.

The nation itself gave the Okada cabinet a mandate to continue in office only last week, the Minseito party, supporting the government, defeating the powerful opposition Seiyukai party, committed to a stern foreign policy, in Thursday's parliamentary election.

WPA PROJECTS APPROVED HERE

Recreational and Real Property Inventory Are Proposed based chiefly on the assumption that the money could be placed in other projects of a more important nature.

Proponents of the measure pointed out, at the same time, that the city is contributing only $200 to bring in a $9,000 payroll which would serve to take a large number off the municipal relief rolls, who must be provided for anyway.

As outlined by the WPA, there are two purposes in the conduct of a real property inventory. The first is to provide employment to needy persons of the white collar class. The second is to provide a sound basis of fact for the forming of policies in the field of housing and land planning, on the part of either local or federal agencies.

The WPA points out: "The survey will include a dwelling survey and land use survey. The dwelling survey will provide information as to residential structures and dwelling units, which will be summarized by blocks and also tabulated and analyzed for economic areas and for the city as whole."
